

Anastasia Bergeron is Tools & Tiaras' social media coordinator, making sure everything T&T is spread throughout our different platforms. She is a senior at the University of Michigan and will graduate in May with a Bachelor's Degree in English and a minor in Business.

Currently, she is interning at Bloomberg News.

Anastasia's passion for gender equity started early. In high school, she completed her Girl Scout Gold Award hosting public speaking workshops for middle school girls.

She also co-founded an organization called SuiteGirl, which hosted events with panels of women executives giving advice to high school girls on reaching the C-Suite. In the future, she hopes to attend law school and become a judge. Areas of law she is eager to pursue include cases related to environmental justice and workplace harassment. Some of her favorite feminist icons are Ruth Bader Ginsburg and Megan Thee Stallion.
